

ABRAHAM ALEXANDER

Born in Greece to parents of Nigerian descent, Abraham Alexander moved to Texas with his family at age 11, determined to escape the racial tensions they faced in Athens. But while his lyrics speak to pain and trauma and life-changing loss, Alexander instills his music with a joyful passion and irrepressible spirit, ultimately giving way to songs that radiate undeniable hope.

In the making of his debut EP, Alexander traveled from Fort Worth to London and worked with producer/songwriters like Cameron Warren (The Dap Kings, Dan Caplen), shaping his songs with elements of soul, hip-hop, and blues. He is currently working on his follow-up album.

QUICK STATS

- Over 5.5 million Spotify streams for “Stay” (as an independent artist)
- 2021 tour with Leon Bridges which included 2 standing ovations at Red Rocks
 - “Lovers Game” featured on NPR Music’s “Station Breaks”
- National radio airplay including KCRW, KCSN, KXT, Austin City Limits Radio, KUTX, and more
- Backup vocals on Leon Bridges’ debut album, Coming Home, and Frank Turner’s album, Be More Kind

PRESS

“His soulful, blues style voice brings listeners into a personal journey, evoking emotion in the deepest sense.” - NPR Music

“With his soothing vocals and bluesy undertones, Alexander’s unique sound represents a fresh take on the Texas music scene.” - Texas Monthly

“Elements of John Legend, Michael Kiwanuka, and Moses Sumney are all present in the young artist’s well-formed soundscape, and he’s an on-par musical treat.” - Dallas Observer